Brianne Donahoe (26 and a registered nurse) wasn't thrilled about being set up by her parents in high school, but she humored them and agreed to go out with Colin McGree (27 and a fixed-income pricing specialist) who, at the time, played hockey with her brother. They immediately hit it off and managed to stay together throughout high school and college. Seven years later, the couple moved into their new condo. After spending the entire first day unpacking boxes, Colin asked Brianne to follow him upstairs. "I ran and almost crashed into him at the top of the stairs!" says Brianne, who found Colin on one knee at the landing. For their city wedding with nautical flair, Brianne and Colin went with a blue, white and raspberry color scheme, adding Irish- and Nantucket-inspired elements as a tribute to their two favorite travel destinations. —CM
